The New York Times

SAM BENNETT, Location One, 26 Greene Street, SoHo, (212) 334-3347. This drummer and electronic percussionist, who used to lead the band Chunk (a mainstay at the Knitting Factory when it was on East Houston Street), has been living and working in Japan since 1996; this concert is the first New York has seen of him in ages. He will improvise with the guitarist Marc Ribot and the saxophonist Ned Rothenberg. Tonight at 8; admission is $15 (Ratliff).

★Samm Bennett, Marc Ribot and Ned Rothenberg

Location One. 8pm; $15, free for members. Samm Bennett, the keyboardist-composer who made a splash downtown in the late '80s with the Boshō Trio, returns to New York after an extended stay in Japan. Judging by the presence of guitar hero Marc Ribot, Bennett is eager to pick up where he left off.

★Janene Higgins and Ikue Mori

Location One. 8pm, $10. Ikue Mori is a drummer by trade (she was once in a band called DNA, with a cat named Arto), but these days her chosen mode of communication is Power-Book. Janene Higgins supplies videos and other digital media.

★Shelley Hirsch, Marina Rosenfeld and Toshio Kajiwara

Location One. 8pm; $10, free for members. The phrase vocal acrobatics gets tossed around pretty carelessly, and often by people who have never heard Shelley Hirsch. It's not just where she can go with her pipes, it's also what she does when she gets there. Turntablists Toshio Kajiwara and Marina Rosenfeld join in for some improvs after Hirsch performs some solo pieces.
